

Student Awards in Jewish Studies

CSULB's Jewish Studies Program announces the following scholarships and student award opportunities for 2010:

The Toni and Alex Horowitz Scholarship: one award of $500

The Toni and Alex Horowitz Scholarship is awarded to a student in the College of Liberal Arts with a focus on Jewish Studies. To qualify, a student must have a GPA of 3.5 or better, and be an undergraduate in his or her junior or senior year. Applicants must submit a 1-3 page paper discussing why they wish to focus on Jewish Studies and what they plan to do upon graduation. The student should also be actively involved in community service within the Jewish community and address this service in his or her paper.

The George R. and Beverly August Student Award: two awards of $1000 each

Students wishing to apply for the George R. and Beverly August award must have an exemplary academic record with a minimum GPA of 3.0 or better. To qualify, students must write an essay explaining why they deserve the award and how they intend to be of service to the wider community, provide a letter of recommendation from a professor, and submit a paper written for a course affiliated with Jewish Studies [for a complete list of eligible courses, please contact Dr. Blutinger, or check the Jewish Studies website: <http://www.csulb.edu/colleges/cla/programs/jewishstudies/major/>].

General Instructions:

All applications and accompanying material should be submitted to Dr. Jeffrey Blutinger, History Department, FO2-210, by 5 pm, Thursday, March 25th.
